SAITO SPEAKS OF LOCAL EDUCATION

Former Japanese Consul General Miki Saito, in his interview to the representative of a Tokyo newspaper, dwelt upon the local education of the Japanese children. He said: "There are more than 4000 Japanese children of school age in Hawaii. The schools commence at 9 o'clock in the morning and close at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. The children are required to attend the government schools regularly where they learn the English language."

In the Japanese schools the Japanese children learn geography, history, penmanship and composition. They attend the Japanese schools daily before 9 in the morning and after 3 o'clock in the afternoon. There are many Japanese schools on the four principal islands.

In Honolulu there is a department where the pupils are prepared for college. The teachers are recognized by the Education Department.

Recently when His Royal Highness General Prince Fushimi visited Honolulu, he contributed liberally towards the educational fund which now amounts to $10,000. Through the medium of this fund children of the laborers are given a good education both in English and Japanese. The Charity Association also assists materially in educating the children.

Since the Japanese-Hawaiian immigration treaty was made in 1885, Japanese laborers came to Hawaii in large numbers. They were distributed to various plantations. The immigration companies were established here.

For the benefit of the local Japanese, a Japanese charity hospital was erected, where the sick are cared for. Some of the laborers who are engaged in various branches of business today are apparently doing well.

A crown of glory—is a beautiful head of hair. An Australian lady now in London writes under date Jan. 28, 1907:

"Ayer's Hair Vigor has done my hair a world of good. It takes to it my hair is now thick, glossy, and soft, and when plaited is 55 inches long. Ayer's Hair Vigor ought to be used by every woman who takes pride in her appearance."

You also may have such a crown of glory if you will follow the example of this lady and use

It will remove all dandruff and make your hair rich and abundant.
